

A Rural Canada "Meeting of Minds"

CRRF, NRE & NRRN - a rural hat trick!

October 26-28, 2006

Ottawa, Ontario, Canada

Call for proposals!

As day one of the three day "Meeting of Minds" event, the National Rural Research Network (NRRN) invites proposals for posters at its second annual conference,

"Creating Rural Opportunities Through Research"

The conference committee welcomes proposals for posters that reflect the breadth and diversity of rural research and rural development practice in Canada. Researchers, practitioners, and users of research are all invited to submit proposals. If you know of research that contributes to viable and sustainable rural or remote communities we want to hear from you!

Proposals should be received by the Network Coordinator at srutherford@monachus.com
no later than
June 30, 2006

Conference fees will be waived for those posters selected for display.
Some limited travel subsidies may be available.

The goal of the NRRN is to establish an on-going network of individuals and institutions involved in rural research production or its application in rural or remote areas. With this year's focus on "Creating Rural Opportunities Through Research" participants will be able to explore this network by meeting with presenters and exchanging insights to broaden knowledge and expand the circles of interest.

The NRRN is funded as part of the Networking Initiative of the Government of Canada's Community Capacity Building program, in partnership with the Canadian Rural Revitalization Foundation.
